funeral planning

You're invited

If you've been thinking about your end-of-life arrangements, you may be wondering...

- Why should I have a funeral?
- How do I go about planning my funeral and what options are available to me?
- Who will pay for my funeral and are there benefits to setting aside funds ahead of time?
- Will my funeral reflect my wishes and be meaningful to my family and friends?

These are questions that many people ask as they prepare for the inevitable. Arranging for your funeral and end-of-life expenses can be an emotionally difficult process.

This seminar will provide you with the guidance and direction you need to discuss your funeral service and memorialization preferences with your family and help you evaluate the options available for setting aside funds to cover your end-of-life expenses.
